LSU’s Carole L. Jurkiewicz is the Woman’s Hospital Distinguished Professor of Healthcare Management in the E. J. Ourso College of Business’ Public Administration Institute. She is an award-winning scholar who, in 2006, was named to a national task force established by the American Society for Public Administration to explore the governance issues and challenges that arose in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina.

Jurkiewicz has authored dozens of scholarly articles and texts on organizational leadership, administrative ethics, and healthcare. She serves on the editorial boards of a number of key academic journals and, in addition to serving as chair of the Committee on Gender Research, was named co-chair of the Third International EGPA Conference on Ethics, and was elected chair of the ASPA Section on Ethics.

In 2005, the Journal of Public Affairs Education ranked her as the seventh most productive individual research scholar. Jurkiewicz received a Ph.D. from the University of Missouri at Kansas City. She served as co-chair for the 67th Annual ASPA National Conference and as conference co-chair of the Third International EGPA Conference on Ethics. She was named to a national task force established by the American Society for Public Administration to explore the governance issues and challenges that arose in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina.

In 2006, Jurkiewicz was elected chair of the ASPPA Section on Ethics, and served on the editorial boards of a number of key academic journals. She was also elected chair of the Committee on Gender Research.

Jurkiewicz received a Ph.D. from the University of Missouri at Kansas City. She served as co-chair for the 67th Annual ASPA National Conference and as conference co-chair of the Third International EGPA Conference on Ethics. She was named to a national task force established by the American Society for Public Administration to explore the governance issues and challenges that arose in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina.

Jurkiewicz received a Ph.D. from the University of Missouri at Kansas City. She served as co-chair for the 67th Annual ASPA National Conference and as conference co-chair of the Third International EGPA Conference on Ethics. She was named to a national task force established by the American Society for Public Administration to explore the governance issues and challenges that arose in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina.